Serr. 30 .- Robbed at the Firm Police Intelligence.

SEFT. 30.—Robbed at the Five Points.—A stranger, at present sojoerning in the city, named Laurence Kelly, on Sunday evening last paid a visit to the Five Points, and while in that neighborhood entered the house kept by Mary Reed, 61 Cross street, and remained there some time, in company with a female whom he met at that establishment, having in his possession the sum of $400, which, on leaving the house, was not to be found. He accordingly applied to the Pelice, and had Mary Reed acrested on a charge of being concerned in robbing him Mrs. Reed gave up $60, alleging that the complainant had handed it to her for safe keeping. Cerrection.—A few days ago, in referring to the reeevery of property stolen from the store of Tiffany, Young & Ellis, the Reporter was led to state that a portion of the stolen goods were found pledged at the pawnshop of Mr. Jackson in Reade street. Such does not appear to have been the case; on the contrary, when the goods were taken to his office by a colored girl, to be piedged, he at once stopped them, and took immediate measures to restore them to the owners; the correction is therefore cheerfully made, although no censure was intended to be insputed to Mr. Jackson at the time.

MELANCHOLY SUICIDE OF EX-SPEAKER WHITE.—We are pained to learn of the suicide of the Hon. John White, from the Lexington Observer of yesterday. We give below extracts from the Observer's account of the melancholy affair. A letter also appears in that paper from Col. David Irvine, under date of Monday evening, stating in addition that Judge White had returned the day before from holding the Breathitt court; that for some months his health had been very feeble, accompanied by great depression of spirits; that his remains were to be interred on Wednesday, and that the bar of Richmond were to hold a meeting on Tuesday.

"Our city was thrown into great consternation yesterday morning by the intelligence from Richmond, that the Hon. John White, of that place, had, on Monday evening, committed suicide by blowing his brains out with a pistol. The intelligence was the more startling from the character of the distinguished dead. He was cool, electrinical, self-poised, brave, and an act of this kind would have been expected as soon from any one in our State as from John White. We have no further particulars than that sometime in the forenoon of Monday he told his family that he would retire to his room, and wished to be private—not to be interrupted. He did so, and about three ciclock the report of a pistol was heard, and upon going into his room, it was found that he had put an end to uis existence by placing a pistol against ais right temple, and blowing a ball through his head—Pecuniary embarrassment is assigned as the cause, though nothing had been discovered, when our informant left, which indicated the reason.

"Mr. White was, at the time of his death, judge of the nineteenth judicial district, to which station he was appeinted by Gov. Owsley, just before the termination of the last session of Congress. He represented the district in which he resided for the last ten years in the Congress of the United States, and presided as

THE WORLD'S CONVENTION will be held in Ctinton Hall, and commence its proceedings at 10 o'clock on Wedneaday morning, 1st October, when all who are interested in the improvement of the condition of society, irrespective of any of the existing divisions, which prevent Union, and destroy the germs of charity, are invited to attend to assist in the adopt on of measures that will enable the public, in a short time, to apply its abundant materials and powers to ensure permanent prosperity and progressive happiness to the entire population of these States. It is full time that the inhabitants of America should be no longer deceived and held in mental out that is anstanced the control of the control of the control of the control of the millions, or even of that can ever improve the condition of the millions or even of that can ever improve the condition of the millions or even of the can ever improve the condition of the millions or even of the can ever improve the condition of the millions or even of the can ever improve the condition of the millions or even of the can ever improve the condition of the millions or even of the can ever improve the condition of the millions or even of the can ever improve the condition of the millions or even of the can ever improve the condition of the millions or even of the can ever improve the condition of the millions or even of the can ever improve the condition of the millions or even of the can be can b

These virtues can beattained and secured in practice only by the abrence of local prejudices; 2d, a universal good practical education freed from tocal prejudices—to ensure a superior claracter; 3d, regular systematic beneficial employment to enarce a surplus of wealth for all; 4th, a scientific arrangement of externed circumstances to compose societies which shall exclude 1 cal prejudices, and include superior education and employment; 5th, local government without force or frand, which stall be cared for and justly treated. All this may now be accomplished by the World's Convention. Education, employment, as local prejudices, and a government that will care for all act justly to each on the principle of universal charity and act justly to each on the principle of universal charity and and and sulty to each on the principle of universal charity and hadness; with these the future happiness of the World will be permanently secured. Wright's Indian Vegatable Pills are one of the best medicines in the world for the cure of Fevers, because they purge from the bosy those morbid humors which are the cause of

In all cases of Fever from four to eight of said Indian Vegatable Fills should be taken every night and morning. This

MONEY MARKET.
Tuesday. Sept. 30—6 P. M.
There was a very fair improvement in Stocks to-day, and the sales, although rather limited, were principally for cash. Norwich & Worcester went up ½ per cent;

Eric Railroad, ½; Reading, ½; Wilmington, ½; Long Island, ½; Canton, 1; Morris Ganal, ½; Farmers' Loan, ½; Pennsylvania 5's, ‡; Illinois, ‡; Housatonic declined ‡ per cent; East Boston, ‡. The failure in the old board of Brokers noticed a few days since, does not appear to be merely a temporary suspension, but the reverse. The party alluded to was for a long time a very heavy boar, and sold extensively at the lowest prices. When the recent advance had nearly or quite reached its heighth, he became a large buyer, and soon after the first decline commenced, between the two movements his fell through, and it will probably be sometime before difference can be compromised. As anticipated, the failure has had a favorable influence upon the market. Quotations for Sterling Exchange close firm at 91 a 10

The receipts for the remaining three days in the month may swell this amount to nearly two millions of dollars.
The receipts for the month of September 1844, amounted to $2,432,751, being at least four hundred and fifty thou sand dollars more than the revenue from customs will be for the same month this year. There must be a talling off about two million dollars in the value of goods in ported, to cause this decrease in the revenue.

More than one-half of the specie exported in the above period, was shipped in the months of August, September, October and November, 1844.

The importations of merchandise in the early part of the calendar year 1844, was so very heavy, and the exports comparatively so very limited, that sterling exchange advanced from 8\frac{3}{2} a 9 per cent in May, to 10 a 10\frac{1}{2} per cent in October and November. This rapid rise in the premium for sterling exchange, created a demand for specie for exportation, and the shipments in four months from this port alone, amounted to $4,418,018. The exportation of specie decreased very much after November, but exchange kept just below a specie point, and has been firm at rates ruling from 91 to 10 per cent since. The importations of this port have not fallen off much within the past year, but the exportation of merchandise has increased placing our foreign trade in a more favorable condition than it was throughout 1844. The shipments of specie have been very much reduced by the cautious operations of the Banks. These institutions have confined their movements more to the legitimate business of the city than usual—their lines of discount have been pretty well extended, and nothing but short paper has been taken. Stock speculators have this season re-ceived very little aid from the banks, but they have not on that account, been much restricted in their resources. Capital from private sources has been abur dant, and the rate of interest has consequently been reduced. The banks have, by their cautious movements been able to hold on to their specie, and by the restric-tions placed upon the money market have kept the pre-mium for exchange just below a specie point. The longer this state of things continues the better, as it operates as a wholesome check upon commercial affairs generally, and keeps down speculations.

The Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company have entered into a contract for the completion of the canal to Cumberland within two years from this time, and the agents of the State of Maryland have approved the contract. The work is to be commenced within thirty days from the 25th inst. From the character of the contractors we should judge there was very little doubt but that the work will be completed within the time speci-fied.

We annex a statement showing the amount of the semi-annual dividends of the Boston Banks for the six months ending October 7, 1844 and 1845. The average dividend declared for the six months ending October 7, 1845, was a fraction better than for the corresponding pe-

October 7, 1845, the semi-annual dividends were all above three per cent, several banks declaring 3½ and 4 per cent. In October, 1844, many of the banks declared but 2j per cent dividend, and in one instance only 2 per cent. The banking capital of Boston is now but three hundred and seventy thousand dollars larger than it was in October, 1843. The value of the capital, according to the average dividends for ten years, had decreased in October, 1843 from $17,110,000 to $16,460,972, considered as a six per investment. The dividends received by the twenty-four banks in Boston for the ten years to 1841 inclusive, or since they commenced paying dividends, indicate the value of their aggregate capital as a six per cent investment, or the sum on which six per cent per annum has been received, to have been in October 1841, $16,76, 289 fered a depreciation of $307,317 50 in 1842 and 1843.

The capital of the 24 banks in 1841 and 1843 was $17,-110,000, and the aggregate capital for ten years $171,-100,000. The aggregate dividends for the ten years to 1841, indicate the value of it as a six per cent investment, or the sum on which interest has been received, to have been only $167,682,897 69, or less than the par by the $3,417,102 31, or $341,710 23 per annum. The amount $3,417,102 31 was unproductive, and the interest thereon is $205,026 14 in ten years, or $20,502 61 per annum, which has been a loss to stockholders.

The aggregate dividends for ten years to 1843, indicate the value of the aggregate capital to have been for that time as a 6 per cent investment, $164,609,722 69, or the sum on which interest has been received, or less than the par by the sum of $6,490,277 31, or $649,027 73 per annwhich has been a less to stockholders. The difference between these two amounts, or $3,073,175 for ten years, or $307,317 50 per annum, which last is the depreciation of the value of the capital $17,110,000 of the 24 banks in Boston in 1842 and 1843. This difference, or the depreci ation in two years, indicates a loss of interest to stock. holders of $184,390 50 in ten years, or $18,439 05 per annum, and amounts to 1-56th of the whole capital or 1-55th of the value of the capital in 1841. The whole deprecia tion, $649,027 73 amounts to more than 1-25th part of the capital, $17,110,000. Since 1843, the capital invested in banking in Boston has paid more than six per cent per annum. The average dividend declared payable on the 6th of Oct. 1845, was at the rate of 6°_{0} per cent on the whole banking capital of the city. The increased business of Boston, without a corresponding increase in the banking capital, gives that in existence more active employment. This im-provement in the per cent interest paid by the banks, will raise such investments in the minds of the capitalists of that section of the country and improve the value of the stocks, so long as the amount of capital invested in that business remains reduced, but any increase in the prefits of these institutions, creates an anxiety among capital lists to get up new banks or increase the capitals of the old, and applications are made at once to the legislature for additional banks, and by the old banks for an additional capital. In this way the banking capital of all the principal cities becomes too large, and the competition for its employment expands the currency, stimulates speculation in the staple articles of commerce, and conse-quently deranges trade generally. The banking capital of Boston is large enough to afford all the facilities the merchants of that cityor vicinity actually require to carry on their legitimate business for the next ten years, no matter what the increase may be, and by keeping down the amount of capital, the currency would every year become more valuable as trade increased, and we should not hear of so many cases of bankruptcy, and the almost instantaneous loss of immense fortunes. There would be a more gradual increase in business, but it would be permanent and healthy; there would be none of those ruinous reactions that now sweep away so many mercantile houses whenever they come upon them.

Every reader of Shakspeare is aware that in the play of Much Ado About Norhing," the sprightly Beatrice replies to the disguised Benedict in the following terms:

Beatrice—That I was disdainful, and that I had my good wit out of the "Hundred Merry Tales."

[Cerrespondence of the Herald.] Washington, Sept. 26, 1845.

Expedition to California. I notice in your paper an article on a proposed expedition to California. Allow me to furnish those young gentlemen, who are to compose this expedition, with some information which may be of im-portance to some of them. I have lived there five years—own twenty square leagues of land within twenty miles of Monterey, (U. C.) and have now in successful operation a large milling establishment. I leave here on the 1st for New Orleans, thence to Vera Cruz, and across the country to Acapulco, on the Pacific side, where I shall charter a vessel to convey me to Monterey.

California is admitted by all who are conversan with the country to be the finest and best climate in all this world-the land is generally high and rolling, with the country to be the linest and best climate in all this world—the land is generally high and rolling, and capable of producing all the good things that grow in this country, with many of the delicious tropical fruits, without snow or ice in winter, and on the sea coast not uncomfortably hot in the summer, with all kinds of wild game in abundance.

The commercial business of the coast is like that of all other new, thinly settled countries, small, compared with the cities of the Atlantic coast, but generally leaves an immense profit, without any risk or trouble. There are all kinds of fish to be had, (salmon, &c.) and an immense trade could be carried on with the United States, by salting them.

The provincial government, which is very good for a new country, will give to all settlers from one to ten square leagues of land, provided they will agree to improve the same within one year from the time the land is granted.

A great amount of money can be made annually by a company of several hundred young men, even at the gold and silver mines, which are situated within a short distance of Monterey.

In fact, I know of no country which offers so great inducements, to young and enterprising gentlemen, as California; and should three thousand, even, from the Atlantic cities, see fit to try their fortunes in that delightful country, I think they will never regret it.

Some few days since I received a letter from a even, from the Atlantic cities, see if to try their fortunes in that delightful country, I think they will never regret it.

Some few days since I received a letter from a German gentleman in New York, who informed me that about 200 Germans were enrolled at St. Louis, to go with the expedition forming in New York, Boston, and other of the seaboard cities, and asking me for information on some points. I can only say that the proportion of females to males, in California, is very great, (10 to 1) many of the former possessing large landed properties—that they are both beautiful and virtuous—and the length of the journey by land to California, from St. Louis, would be a strong reason why few females should accompany the expedition, unless they go by sea; and the above letter informs me that a vessel called the Mariposa, will sail from New York on the 1st October, another on the 1st December, and one from Baltimore on the 1st January. By these vessels those who are married might take passage with their families, and save much fatigue, &c. I shall be happy to give you any information in regard to C. which I may possess, and therefore give you my address.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29, 1845.

For some days past there has been quietly sitting in the chamber of the Navy Department, opposite the room of Mr. Bancroft, a committee of naval officers in examination of the case of Lieutenant John T. McLaughlin.

Lieut. McLaughlin was purser of the squadron employed along the coast during the late Florida war, in co-operation with the land forces, from 1838 to 1842. Serious charges of corruption, it appears, were first brought against the Lieutenant by Mr. Charles H. Winder, a clerk in the State Department. A discussion followed between these two gentlemen, through the columns of the Intelligencer, but growing two strong'in personalities, it was at length cut short by the editors. At least, this is our recollection of the controversy. Lieutenant McLaughlin desired an investigation in these charges of corruption urged against him by Mr. Winder, and in compliance with his wishes and the interests of the service, a resolution was passed at the last Congress authorizing the Board of Examination in the pre-authorizing the Board of Examination in the premises, now in convention.

The charges against Lieutenant McLaughlin may substantially be embodied under one specification, profligate extravagance of the public moneys as purser of the Florida squadron, and outrageous cruelty to the men under his command.

The Court of Inquiry consists of Commodore M. C. Perry, President; Commanders H. W. Ogden, and C. K. Stribling, Associates; Philip Barton, Esq., Judge Advocate. Lieutenant McLauglin is his own counsel.

Esq., Judge Advocate.

Among the witnesses who have made their appearance are Lieutenants John Rodgers, C. R. P. Rodgers, Thomas T. Sloan; Passed Midshipmen, A. D. Harrell, Charles Deas, Wilmer Shields, H. S. Wise, A. Murray; Sergeant J. Pickett; Private Thomas Callaghan; Passed Midshipman J. C. Adams; Corporal C. Shields, of the late Florida squadron; Col. J. W. Simonton, a merchant at Key West; W. H. Wall, a member of the Florida Science E. Weaver and C. H. Winder of squadron; Col. J. W. Simonton, a merchant at Key West; W. H. Wall, a member of the Florida Senate; George E. Weaver and C. H. Winder of the State Department; J. W. McBlair, Hon. Henry T. Cranston, R. I.; G. P. Andrews, U. S. A.; Passed Midshipmen Edward Donaldson, Smith M. Purdy, of N.Y.; W. Penn Frailey, Canton, Ohio. During the sittings of last week, the fourth Auditor, A. G. Dayton, and Mr. Etheridge, and Mr. H. Mechlin, two of his clerks, were examined respecting the vouches of the department in this case, and upon the authenticity of certain letters connected with these Florida transactions.

To-day Colonel Simonton was examined. He testified that the prices paid by Lieutenant McLaughlin for provisions, &c., were not extravagant, all things considered—the climate—the scarcity of provisions—the difficulty of procuring them, &c.—He certified to a letter written by him some years ago, justifying Lieut. McLaughlin in his purchases of provisions, as not having paid inordinate prices for them. The examination of Colonel Simonton occupied a long time, in consequence of cross questions and conversations upon the comparative prices of provisions at New York, Indian Key and Key West.

The material witness in the case, Mr. C. H. Winder, was then called forward to detail his various specifications as from the records, of the wasteful extravagance by Purser McLaughlin of the public moneys to the account of the Florida squadron.

Washington, Sept. 29, 1845. We see that Senator Huger, of South Carolina, is here. Mr. Walker being "solitary and alone," on the Tarifl, likely Huger has come up to encourage the drooping secretary in a further abatement of the

You will have perceived that Father can scarce express his exultations in discovering that the Charleston Mercury correspondent is an Englishman. If Father Ritchie could now only further discover that he was paid in British gold, and hired by the British government to break down the Union, the Mercury would be a defunct paper. As it is, we are afraid that Father Ritchie has old "scotched the sarpent."

we are airaid that Father Ritchie has old "scotched the sarpent."

A rumor comes up this evening, that Gen. Taylor had sent a scouting party across the Rio Grande, with orders to look up such straggling Mexicans as might be near the borders, and to "make them stir themselves."

The untimely end of Mr. Speaker White, of Kentucky, has excited much sympathy in Washington, where he was widely known and esteemed.

Two New Yorkers to-day had a misunderstanding about a lady. One of them threw down his glove for a fight, "coffee and pistols"—the other declined the honor, but in lieu thereof proposed "a compromise," which was agreed to by and by, neither gentleman, we suppose, having a particular fancy to be shot at.

Appropos of shooting. Mr. Paine, who has been shot at so often, is in this city again. He says, he will make it appear clear here that his story is founded upon absolute powder and ball. That's what he's come for.
